REFLECTIONS

How can such an expanse of concrete, brick and wood affect our lives? Bellingham High is more than an architectural relic of the 60's. It is in fact a reflection of those faculty and students who use it. Since the lockers, walls, and desks give off a drab ginger aura, we can only find the varied colors and temperatures of life in those people around us. There are teachers with such intense fire for education their students have to dodge sparks from the chalk. Other teachers have a more relaxed approach. Information and ideas become an easygoing river from which sprouts hearty and fruitful students. The students themselves are as diverse as the faculty. Some people seem to find the academic experience at BHS as smooth and plush as velvet. Others seem to sculpt stone with blades of grass. Still others remain silent and carefully observe and absorb the actions of their classmates.

So, Bellingham High School, the great beast overcome by all graduates of the institution, is not the thing that affects us. The only thing we are influenced by are the humans around us.

Joanna Marino

The background of the page is a complex, abstract pattern of concentric circles and wavy lines, resembling a topographical map or a series of ripples. The lines are drawn in a light, sketchy style, creating a sense of movement and depth. The pattern is most dense in the upper left and lower right corners, with more open space in the center where the text is located.

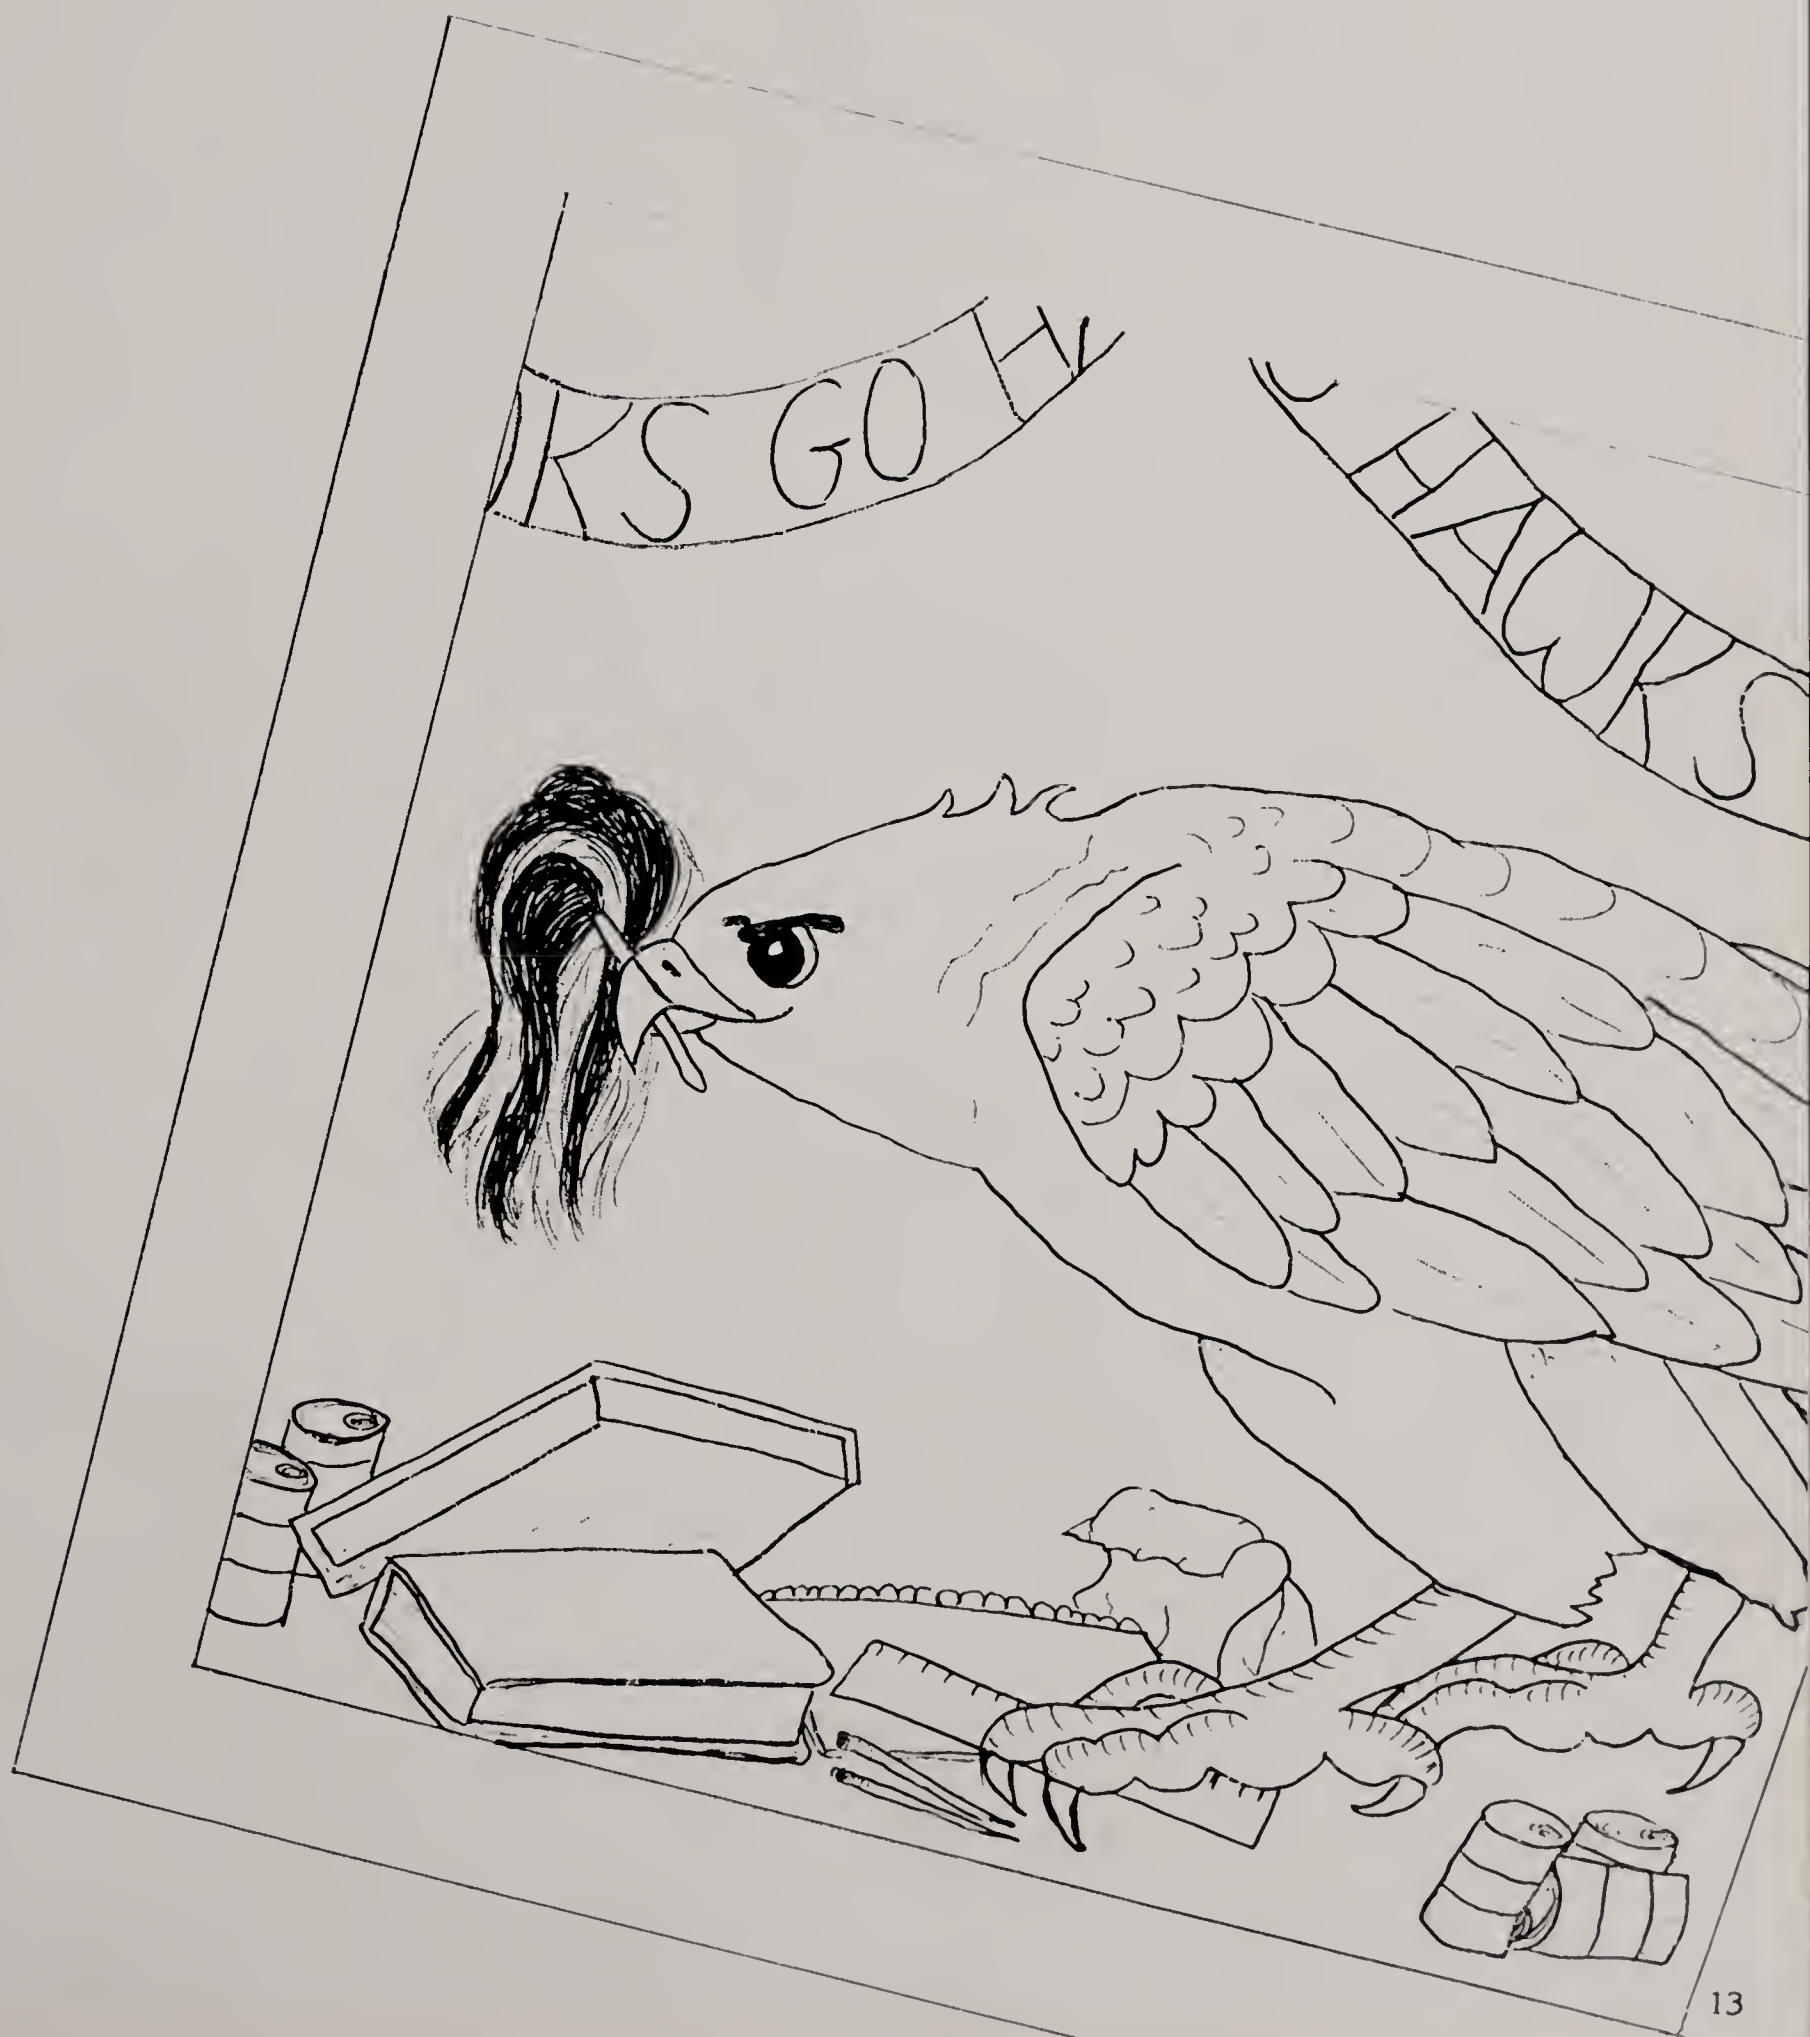

"And indeed there will be time to wonder "Do I dare?"
and "Do I dare?"

Time to turn back and descend the stair,
With a bald spot in the middle of my hair —
They will say, "How his hair is growing thin!"
My mourning coat, my collar mounting firmly to the chin,
My necktie rich and modest, but asserted by a simple pin —
They will say, "But how his arms and legs are thin!"
Do I dare
Disturb the universe?
In a minute there is time
For decisions and revisions which a minute will reverse."

T. S. Eliot

Why was spirit week such a great success? The Student Council, of course. But Spirit Week is only one of the many activities the Student Council has been responsible for. The Student Council also sold lollipops, ran the Thanksgiving Food Drive, and the Toys for Tots Holiday Drive. Made up of students from all of the high school grades, the council is advised by Mr. Andreoni and Mrs. Parker. All money raised by the Student Council goes toward the scholarship fund.

This year's yearbook staff has worked very hard to complete Epilogue 1991. In addition to the editor's there have been many unseen hands behind the pages of this book. Administration, faculty, and the student body have supported our efforts in taking this year's activities and turning them into tomorrow's memories.

Murder was committed again at BHS and as always, it was solved in hours. "The Butler Did It," directed by Sandra Buckley, did the same through various talented students. Members were given two months to prepare for the play, so practices were long and tough. To make matters worse, one of the main characters dropped out one week before opening night. A replacement was brought in from Milford, and the play was pulled together just in time. Officers Robin Lavallee, Aimee Doherty, Jodie Martin, Aynn Feller, and Michael Pavia were chosen by the group. Drama also appeared in the Toys for Tots Telethon.

COLOR GUARD

Color Guard is a year of hard work and dedication. The interest was so great this year that try-outs were held and only the best were chosen. Practices, which were held two or three days a week for three hours, began in September and did not end until May. The improvement of the Color Guard is due to the fact that already four of its members have attended a week long session at Hampshire College, where they worked with the best Color Guard instructors in the country. Color Guard performed in football games, parades, and concerts, and also in Pop's Night. Captains Kerri Fedorchak and Angie Martin worked hard to keep the Color Guard together. The Guard continues to work in preparation for their trip next year.

CHORUS

It's not the same old song and dance for the BHS Chorus this year. Made up of 18 members, the Chorus has made this year a memorable one. They began by performing at the Christmas Concert, where they performed a variety of popular holiday songs. But that was only the beginning. The Chorus immediately began working on their performance for Pop's Night. Their selection, "Nickelodeon . . . The Magical Music Machine" included not only singing, but also dancing, and some acting. Choreographer, Anne Beth Carey, helped the chorus to perfect their performance. The Chorus has also worked with the band to raise funds for their trip next year.

BAND

The BHS Band was made up of an amazing 61 students this year, which is the largest the band has been in years. The band is made up of students from grades 9, 10, 11, and 12. This year the band took a part in many activities. These included football games, concerts and parades. Some members of the band also participated in the Tri-Valley Music Festival and the All-State Band. The band also held many fundraisers which are raising money for their trip next year. The band held a bottle-drive, two Papa Gino's Nights, a candy sale and raffles. But the biggest fundraiser the band held was Pop's Night. This concert, which featured the band, Jazz Band, Color Guard and Chorus, was attended by almost 400 people and was a complete success. The band is still planning many more fundraisers to help them to reach their goal for 1992 . . . Virginia!

Often an unknown part of the Music Department, the Jazz Band was hard at work throughout the year. With approximately 20 members, the group practiced one day a week, for two hours at a time. The Jazz Band includes instruments such as the drum, trumpet, trombone, saxophone, clarinet, tuba, and unlike the marching band, the guitar and piano. The Jazz Band was featured in Pop's Night where they performed an outstanding ensemble that included a vocal selection.

The junior high often seems to be a world on its own. And a world such as that needs a band of its own as well. This junior high has two. One, the seventh grade band is made up of numerous talented students, as is the eighth grade band. Both bands performed in the Christmas and Spring concerts. The eighth graders are also involved in helping to raise money for next year's band trip to Virginia.

Class History

Well, we made it!

The Bellingham High School Class of 1991 is going to graduate tomorrow. Whether it was a breeze or a struggle you must admit we did share some great times together.

At the beginning of our freshman year Mrs. D'Alfonso and Mrs. Carr took on the responsibility of being our class advisors and we elected our first class officers. We chose Scott Thomas as our president, Wendy Kramer as our vice-president, Cheryl Patterson as our secretary, and Renetia McDaniel as our class treasurer.

The anticipation was high the night we held our freshman semi-formal dance in the high school cafeteria. We chose our first court which consisted of King — Mike McClafferty, Queen — Pattie Dakie, Princes — Mike Pavia, Jim Zanchi, Kevin Perito, Mark LaPlante, and Princesses — Jeneen Berlinguet, Bronya Desmarais, Jessi Calvey, and Jackie Collins.

As our sophomore year approached we were led by president Scott Thomas, vice-president Cheryl Patterson, secretary Ranae Sowell, and treasurer Jason Aubee. On April 8th the blue and silver decorations were hung in the school gym and people were dancing to our theme song "Almost Paradise" as we had a wonderful time at our sophomore Ring Dance. The chosen court consisted of King — Joe Dimarco, Queen — Cheryl Patterson, Princes — Jeff Martin, Scott Thomas, Eric Slaney, Mike McClafferty, and Princesses — Shelly Lockett, Leesa Tucceri, Kathy-Jo Squire, and Diane Champagne.

Our Junior year was off to a great start led by president Dan Gibbons, vice-president Cheryl Patterson, secretary Jenn Keller, and treasurer Shelly Lockett. The Junior-Senior Christmas Party held on December 21st at the Bocce Club in Woonsocket was a great success as everyone crowded around our Santa Claus, played by Mike Pavia, to get their picture taken with him. But the highlight of our year was to be invited to our first prom held on May 3rd at the Sheraton in Mansfield. The theme colors of black and gold added to the elegance of the evening as we danced to the theme song "Faithfully." The court chosen were King — Jackie LaRose, Queen — Ranae Sowell, Princes — Mike McClafferty, Rick Northrop, Ken Elliott, Neil Russell, and Princesses — Cheryl Patterson, Claire Jandru, Julie Phillips, and Linda Chaisson.

With our senior year already upon us we elected president Dan Gibbons, vice-president Jenn Keller, secretary Aimee Doherty, and treasurer Jeff Picchioni to lead us through our final year. As homecoming day approached, we chose Marcia Semenuk as our homecoming queen and Jen Elliott and Ron Howerton as our class marshalls. We danced the night away on December 20th at the Junior-Senior Christmas Party sponsored by the Juniors held at the Bocce Club in Woonsocket.

After Christmas vacation the pitter-patter of not-so-little-feet was heard constantly in the Guidance office as everyone hurried to send their college applications in on time. After the hectic pace slowed down everyone prepared to have a great time at the Junior-Senior Prom on May 3rd. The pink and silver prom invitations were bought and everyone gathered at the Royal Plaza in Marlborough for dinner and dancing to the theme song "Heaven." Our last court consisting of King — Neil Russell, Queen — Bridget Jackson, Princes — Jesse Cowell, Dan Gibbons, Brian Rollins, and Tim Gotovich, and Princesses — Lisa Doucette, Sandy Marchand, Kim Gaffney and Sandra Rhodes were chosen that evening.

In no time at all we were climbing into the buses ready to bring us to the Frank Davis Sunrise Resort, May 31st, for a day of fun competing against other schools in all different types of sporting activities. Among our victories that day, Scott Corrieri and Vinnie Scinicariello placed second in the dance contest.

The time has just flown by. Today is class day, tonight will be the Senior Class Banquet, and tomorrow we will graduate, and then our high school history will be complete. I wish each of you the courage and determination to follow your dreams and make them a reality.

Thank You.

GRADUATION JUNE 7, 1991

The time has come for us to go.
 I can't help but let the pain show.
 Through the years, they've seemed so long.
 We've come together, become so strong.
 Through the years you've dried my tears.
 You've laid to rest my darkest fears.
 I can't believe the time has come.
 That we must go, our lives move on.
 So let us rise together.
 Sing our freedom hand in hand.
 Using what we've learned to grow.
 Now it's time to take our stand.

March right through life's open door.
 Searching for what you're striving for.
 To look, to feel, to understand.
 Nothing can be too great a demand.
 You're young, you're wild and you are free.
 Never give in too easily.
 Hold on to what you believe.
 Your dreams bring out the best You'll see.
 Take time to look around.
 Never let your eyes fall to the ground.
 Beauty is in your soul.
 Don't miss your chance to take hold.

Chorus:

So hold on to your dreams.
 Hold on to your dreams.
 No matter how hard it may seem.
 You've got to hold on to your dreams.

Jess Weidman

This day marks the end of five years of hard work and effort. We have all strived for this goal and have achieved it. As we celebrate our success, let us stop and ask ourselves exactly what we were questing for over these past years.

We came to this school knowing little about the laws of science, mathematic principles, great literary works, and even ourselves. We were faced with a challenge to absorb knowledge and at the same time, develop our own identities. This process does not end today, nor ideally, should it ever end.

No matter how experienced and wise one is, there will still be a nagging feeling of incompleteness. There are always more facts to learn, new places to see, and new people to meet. Even our own personalities adjust and improve over time. Apparently there can be no such thing as a complete, finalized person.

Why then should we struggle to attain an ideal that will always remain out of our grasp? Because every book we read, sport we excel in, or musical instrument we are skilled in, brings us one step closer to the person we could be. Every time we stand up for what we believe in or help out a friend, we better ourselves. The people we meet and form bonds of friendship with help us be more complete and keep us going.

The only other choice besides facing this never ending struggle is to drown ourselves in apathy. By simply not caring enough about anything, we can dull ourselves into a state of false contentment. This attitude of not wanting to improve ourselves of our society is what perpetuates many of the world's current problems. If each one of us tried to be the best person we could be, in all aspects of our life — spiritually as well as physically and mentally, we could make a major step towards resolving many of the injustices of this society.

Alfred North Whitehead once declared, "Each individual embodies an adventure in existence. There is only one subject matter for education, and that is life in all its manifestations." I ask each of you to reach out joyfully for your individual "adventure in existence." Embrace the challenges the future holds and be concerned for the condition of others as well as yourself. Let us go into the world with the objective of doing our best to improve ourselves and the society to which we belong.

Joanna Marino

Do not lose sight of your dreams. The division between you and your goals should never made. The professional and his trade, the philosopher and his thoughts, the artist and his art and the musician and his music are not separate creations. The essence of one compliments the other.

The cellist is an extension of his instrument. His soul is the grain of the wood in the cello. The notes are his thoughts, the sounds reiterate his heart's desires and the vibrating strings his voice. Because of this, the two should never be parted. The separation of the musician and his instrument will create a universally vast rift depriving the cellist of his love and lifeline. The cello is beautiful in its own right, but without the musician it is silent and empty. Terror, horror and complete disillusionment will follow him to the end of his days. He will carry the bow and use it for evil, projecting dangerous objects to contented white collar suburbians who do not understand the pain of his art. I say give back his cello. He will imitate Bach, Vivaldi, Mozart and Tchaikovsky, yet he will emanate his own elegant sound. There is no reason to question the cellist's ability to feel and play the music since there are hundreds of years of composers and musicians with him.

Is he mad to be so passionate about his music? Many thought Beethoven was mad. If madness is your creativity, so be it! Feed the monster of imagination. But save the sauce of conformity, the pudding of repression, the jello of fear and the cream of ignorance for those blind to your vision. What is then synthesized are symphonic delicacies for our ears. The cellist has power to create new frontiers and expand the boundaries of thought and expression. Once we repress imagination our brains will lie forever dormant and our hearts forever without compassion. Therefore, fear not the cello, but the cellist and his bow. I agree with Peter S. Beagle in his introduction to the Tolkein books stating "We are raised to honor all the wrong explorers and discoverers — thieves planting flags, murderers carrying crosses. Let us at last praise the colonizers of dreams."

Mr. Christie and Mr. Clinton will move to South America, but Mr. Clinton will be abducted by the Incas who claim that he is the "Red Sun God."

Almee and Brian will quit their jobs on Wall Street, sell all their possessions and move to South America.

Craig Babcock will finally find the true love of his life, only later to be disappointed to find that it was only a mirror.

Peter Gianusso will become a giant Redwood tree.

Brian will get a speeding ticket for $1,000,000.

Jodi Compton will write a dissertation on her view of the world. (The way it really is.)

Sandy Marchand will marry Jim Prophet and they'll live in her Toyota truck.

Kerri and Jerry will ride a ferry and be very merry.

Sandy R. will open up her own hair salon for those last minute hair flops for special occasions.

Heather Golan will someday win the gold cup in the Indy 500 with the most consecutive car crashes. Watchout for those curbs.

Shelly Lockett will look like the California raisin at the age of 20 due to all her fake-n-bake tans. (J-K)

Jess Weldman will graduate college and set up his own company, in Thailand that produces odor eaters for shoes, but he will be killed by his employees who claim the glare from his forehead was maddening.

Jeff Picchioni will become "King Pic, the Mafia Lord" but he will be forced to kill "Three Fingers" Cleary when he moves in on King Pic's turf.

Lisa Bertolino will marry Chuck Lewis and have five children.

Kristin and Kathy-Jo will get their licenses by the year 2000.

Pete Gianusso will be drafted by the Minnesota Timberwolves only to quit after an all night binge on Coke-a-Cola and gum drops when he realizes he doesn't like basketball.

Dan Gibbons will drop out of college and go out west to live. He will get lost in the Colorado Rockies looking for his cowboy hat.

Kerri Korlacki will graduate from college and become goalie for the Boston Bruins.

Dan will drop out of college and become a lambada instructor in Brazil.

Kristin will get her license.

Raul will be arrested for cruelty to llamas and sent to prison where he will live happily for the rest of his life.

Mike MacDonald will become Senior Partner of Stop & Shop.

Jenn Keller will become a gym teacher named Butch and will never buy her own car from Brian.

Jeff Picchioni will have his own rock video starring him and all his women of Deca then crash his car at the end.

Dave and Dawn will get married but never return from their honeymoon suite.

Sandra Marchand will have plastic surgery to have her and Jim joined at the hips so they will never have to leave each other's side.

Jennifer Bachman will be committed when she finally loses it from intense guilt over not attending the Senior Prom — Mrs. G. will visit her frequently.

Diane Champagne will have had 1,220 jobs before 1991 is over.

Lisa and Jenn will be living in Iowa raising potatoes and pigs.

WHEN?

CLASS OF 1992

THE YEAR AT A GLANCE

Awards, awards, awards. That one word just about sums up the entire year for the junior class. At the start of the year, Stephanie Bileau received an honorable mention for her paper at Framingham State. Then Kerri Fedorchak received the Xerox award for Humanities and Social Studies, and was accepted into the Massachusetts Advanced Studies Program, all within a one month period. Kris Normandin received notable recognition for her athletic ability. But awards aren't the only things the class of 1992 has to be proud of. The class once again held its annual flea market in October, which raked in a large profit. The class also sold Christmas candy canes and Valentine's Day Carnations. The junior class was responsible for the planning of this year's Christmas party, and the theme of "Silent Night" set a festive mood for the night. The success of the Christmas party was due largely to the hard work of the class officers and advisors Mr. Dalpe and Mr. Vento. The juniors also showed their strength by earning the title of the most spirited class during Spirit Week. But the best moment of the year was the junior's first prom. The juniors are sure to continue their strong role in the year to come.

CLASS OF 1993

THE YEAR AT A GLANCE

What do rings, green flowers and a bunch of crazy kids taking drivers' ed all have in common? The sophomore class of course! This year's class of 1993 succeeded in remaining very active, despite the fact that they are the smallest class in the school. The class officers worked very closely with their advisors Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Beck to plan for the year. The first plans made were those to sell St. Patrick's Day carnations. But the biggest plans of the year were those of planning the Ring Dance. With colors of violet, silver, and teal and a theme of "Almost Paradise" it was a night made in heaven. The sophomore class was also lucky enough to be the host class of Maria Garcia, an exchange student from Spain. The class also had one of its members, Mike Vinciulla, chosen as the new Jr. Drum Major of the band. Good job sophomores!

RING DANCE

COURT — Queen Glorie-Ann Millette, Princesses: Kristen O'Donnell, Sheri Rondeau, Amy Mattingly, and Lisa Kracjik.

COURT — King Ryan Jennings, Princes: Jason Ranleri, Matt Gibbs, Shannon Jacobs, and Dave Motroni.

CLASS OF 1994

THE YEAR AT A GLANCE

Beep! The tone sounds, and suddenly the hall between rooms 50 and 59 is filled with students. These students make up the freshman class of 1994. This year's freshman class had no President, so the other class officers had to work extra hard to keep their class active. And that's exactly what they did. In their first year of participating in Spirit Week, they captured the prize for the best bulletin board. With the help of their advisors, Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Robidoux, they held a very successful fundraiser by selling chocolates. But the highlight of their freshman year was the Sadie Hawkins Dance, which was held in March. With fuchsia and silver as their colors and a theme of "Here and No," it was a special night for all those who attended. Way to go freshmen!

READING

What is a teacher? The dictionary defines a teacher as: one who teaches, especially, one whose occupation is to teach others; an instructor. But during our years at BHS, we have come to see teachers as more than just instructors. We have come to see them as people, mentors, and most of all as friends. As friends, they shared a part of themselves with each and every one of us. By sharing themselves with us, they helped us to feel special and important. These teachers gave us the support we needed and the recognition we yearned for each day. Years from now we will always remember the teachers who helped to make learning fun. Those who shared our joys and achievements, as well as our sorrows and disappointments. Those who always believed in us, even when we didn't believe in ourselves. Those who spent their free time working to make the school better for us. Those who pushed us toward our goals and who helped us reach all that was within our grasps. Those who gave us a second chance to prove ourselves when we hadn't given it our all. And those who make the reality of graduation a little bit sadder for each and everyone of us. So faculty, teachers, friends, although we don't always show it, we do appreciate you, and of course, we love you and we'll miss you!

The soccer team ended this tough season with a respectable .500 mark in the TVL, which was extremely competitive this year. The Blackhawks were led by senior co-captains Jesse Cowell and Joe DiMarco, both league all stars. Strong performances were put in by seniors Marcel Arel, Eric Laflame, Gary Thibodeau, Rob Hastings, Chris Castles, and Rick Northrop. A foreign attack was implemented through the play of the skilled exchange student, Raul Montell. Underclassmen putting in exceptional efforts were Steve and Mike Dozois, Jon Giles, Kyle Normandin, Barry Lariviere, Kevin Yeaton, and the one and only Aref Baig.

As many people expected, the volleyball team soared to amazing heights this season. The Lady Hawks ended up with an impressive 15-2 record, and went to the State Semi-Finals to battle arch-rival Medway. The spiking power of Kristine Normandin, who was selected TVL most valuable player, made the Hawks a feared opponent. Adding to the team's arsenal were seniors Paula Fafard, Renitia McDaniels, Kim Gaffney, Mitzi Elztroth, Lisa Kasper, and Andrea Crow. Everyone put in a great effort to propel the Hawks to an incredible level of achievement and excellence.
